SPEAKER

Patrick Carson, SAD 17 health coordinator, used up most of time relating a native American tale enhanced by Key Club members and "special" Kiwanians judged to be worthy of the task (see photos). What he really came to talk about was the four major health initiatives in the Oxford Hills school district. They are the 1.2 mile exercise and nature trail connecting the high and middle schools along the Little Androscoggin River; a

USDA grant to serve elementary students fresh fruits and vegetables; a pilot project for Hebron 4th & 5th graders to begin their day with 30 minutes of enhanced heart rate physical activity; and an "Eat Well: nutrition educator to provide 20 hours per week working with classes and after school programs. The former guidance counselor and director of Camp Susan Curtis also works with the 4-H Camp in Bryant Pond. He is working to build healthy partnerships wherever he goes. Thanks to Rick Colpitts for inviting Patrick.
